

2 THE RESCUE

www.twotherescue.com

May 2011

Integrated Skills Training
Accident Avoidance
Vehicle Operations
Traffic Control

Communication Skills
Stress Management
Response Liability
Scene Safety

LIFE SAVING TRAINING

QUALIFIED OR CONVENIENT??

Does your in house training give you the “Best Bang for Your Buck?”

Financial concerns should not put the squeeze on the value of the training. During tough financial times agencies tend to stay in house for their training needs. Reliance on in house instructors can create an artificial "bubble" that lacks the safest tactics and most up to date information available.

HOW MUCH real life experience and HOW RECENT have your instructors performed the skills that they teach?

Successful risk management in high liability critical skill areas is achieved by bringing the most experienced teachers with the most up to date tactics into your training room. Not by settling for the most convenient ones.

Being CERTIFIED as an instructor does not make you QUALIFIED to instruct in any and all topics.

Trained + Experienced + Practiced = QUALIFIED!

“Your presentation today was by far the BEST that I’ve EVER attended in the 20 years of attending this EMS EXPO. I give it a 5 Star for it’s rating.”

Michael D. Rossetto/Paramedic

“The knowledge and enthusiasm for and about what they do is infectious. The way they present with facts and personal insights makes this learning memorable.”

Firefighter Briel

“This training is invaluable!”

Firefighter/Paramedic Fennell